ABC Coin and Silver Bullet Announce the Release of EZ-ACT

EZ-ACT makes envelope-free ATM check deposits a reality for smaller financial institutions

FRISCO, TX, May __, 2010 – ABC Coin, Inc. and Silver Bullet Technology, Inc. announced today the release of EZ-ACT (Easy Automatic Check Transfer), a new product jointly developed by the two companies. Now small- to medium-sized financial institutions can afford to offer the same service and convenience as the “big banks” with the ability to make envelope-free ATM check deposits.

The EZ-ACT solution provides a universal, automated process of handling the checks deposited at one of the new envelope-free ATMs. It is considerably more cost-effective than either utilizing existing labor to manually retrieve and process the checks, or developing a custom integration at considerable expense. More importantly, EZ-ACT gives banks and credit unions the advantage of utilizing their existing investment in check imaging hardware and software. Consistency in operational processes saves financial institutions both time and money. EZ-ACT is a simple, efficient, and effective solution.

“Deposit automation has been adopted and advertised by the large banks for some time now. The hardware has been available to the small- and mid-sized financial institutions, but until EZ-ACT, unless you were looking at purchasing very large numbers of ATMs, the cost of integration to effectively process the checks was extremely prohibitive,” said Jim Fox, owner of ABC Coin. “EZ-ACT will give the banks and credit unions we serve the ability to compete with larger financial institutions.”

“Since EZ-ACT leverages the bank’s existing hardware and software, teller training can be completed in a few minutes and the software installation takes less than two hours.” said Bryan Clark, CEO of Silver Bullet Technology. “EZ-ACT, with its “plug-and-play” integration, provides a painless method of processing ATM deposits.”
